A Report the Examination of Rev. Ephraim & Serve, charged with the murder of Sarah Arial conell. pp. 64 David H. Bla. 62 Chhill, Boston.—We received this pameet at too late an hour clast evening to be jet to notice it at length, but copy the forwing paragraphs from the decision of one of the magnitudes, with which the other consurred:—Boston Post.

'In my opinion, clearly, no homicide has

In my opinion, clearly, no homicide has been committed at all, but the deceased committed spicide. The evidence of that to my mind, is irresistible, drawn from circumstan ces and appearances at the scene of the death: If the deceased were strangled, as pretended, and then hung up, there would have been two distinct marks around her neck. The string of the calash was under the cord, and the the levy. cord then must have been put on over the ca-lash, which could not have been done against her will; for had her struggles required the use of one arm, a person could not with a single hand have put it on without removing the calash. There were no marks of violence inconsistent with suicide on her person, or

The marks of violence, as testified to by the women who laid out the corpse, could not have been those of another person, because the right hand of one person, applied to the right side of another, will not present the appearance in this case, unless the person stood behind, and then the prints of the lingers would be below as well as behind the print of

But if this were a case of homicide, there is not sufficient evidence to fix a legal suspi-cion of guit upon the Respondent; and there me what incremelable with a reasonable surprise on of his pair.

I must repeat my emcurrence with my Brother How, that there is not probable cause to suspect that Ephraim K. Avery is guilty of the murder of Sarah M. Cornell?
